Menace To Land In Wide Area Combated In Muck and Sand Regions

Brush fires in the Everglades section of southeast Florida have become serious in some places, and have resulted in a number of arrests and prosecution, Guy J. Bender, chief of the Everglades Fire Control district, said Saturday.

Scattered fires have been reported in the area from St. Lucie County to Dade county, and including Okeechobee, West Palm Beach, Glades counties, the chief said. He cited extra dry conditions at present, and the clearing of many farm sites, as causes for the blazes. He said there are comparatively few muck-land fires now, as the land is still moist.

A serious fire was blazing Saturday in Hendry county in the Glades county section of Whitehead's Corner, along the New Smyrna River, Bender reported. The fire covered about four miles. Most of the area is in the hands of the county, and the fire fighting forces of the district, aerial surveys are being made of the fires.

One of the first discovered, to determine the extent of the fire, was reported under control. Bender said that a fire in Glades county started May 14 and is still burning. This fire, he said, is still burning. This fire, he said, is still burning.

Four negroes are now under arrest in Okeechobee county on similar charges. It was said that the district issued a warning several months ago that prosecution would result in any case in which evidence of fire setting was uncovered.

Forces of the district have been busy engaged in the fighting work recently, and in Dade county day and night shifts have been working, according to Bender. He said that the district is making plans at Tallahassee would make possible Federal aid for the district, to obtain an expansion of the service and more efficient work of the fire patrol.

Amend Law on Glades District Drainage Tax

House Agrees With Senate Bill Permitting Refinancing Plan

Tallahassee, Fla., June 2.—After beating down efforts to take Collier and Monroe counties out of the Everglades drainage district, the House passed on Monday the senate-approved bill to assist in the refunding of that great south Florida district.

The bill proposes to reduce district taxes in 11 counties from $20,000 to $17,000 per year, to support a loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation which will pay bondholders 30 cents on the dollar if the offer is accepted.

Representative W. Z. Platt of Collier county led the fight on the bill. He offered an amendment to take his county and Monroe from provisions of the bill, which was approved by Representative George H. Holt, steering committee member from the House. Representative H. C. Papp of Monroe county joined Platt in urging the measure.

Platt said that the measure would prevent a loan from being made to the district. The bill was adopted by a vote of 68 to 20.

Final Control
Final legislative action was taken on a bill to amend the law on drainage taxes levied by the district.

The measure limits salaries paid to district officials to $400 monthly. Its only function is to provide rights-of-way and easements required by the War Department.

The district treasury holds about $200,000, which is available for the district. The bill would require the district to turn over to the Federal government.

Only a small staff is now being paid by the district. The bill would require the district to pay for the cost of the district.

Delegation From Pahokee

Told Portable Building

May Be Required

Dealing with matters affecting the schools at Pahokee was a chief business at the session Tuesday of the county school board meeting in West Palm Beach. An action of a general nature was the fixing of September 13 as the date of opening of all schools in the county next fall. F. Cox was re-appointed as principal of the school at Canal Point.

A delegation from Pahokee headed by Mayor John A. Dulany appeared before the county school board at the building now under construction for the elementary grades would be inadequate in size; the new building will have eight class-rooms and cafeteria, replacing nine class-rooms now in use in an old frame building, which will not reduce teacher-unit to the point where the school could be accommodated.

He asked that the cafeteria be enlarged 32x4 feet. This request was granted on condition that the school not exceed 100 pupils. The number of class-rooms was said to be impossible at this time. Chairman Widell told the delegation that the school would be enlarged to 100 pupils in the new building, but this was changed to an 8-room fireproof building. Two portable buildings will also be added next fall, and the chairman cited figures to show that Pahokee school will then be better accommodated than those in many schools along the coast, including a unit in West Palm Beach.

The $50,000 project at Pahokee, a large unit in the $100,000 summer building program, also union officials, who said Don Hillier, Pahokee contractor, is not keeping an oral promise to school board to build a new building. The board voted to take the matter up with the contractor, and it was indicated that future contracts will have clauses requiring the use of labor and the payment of prevailing wage scales, and the chairman cited figures to show that Pahokee school will then be better accommodated than those in many schools along the coast, including a unit in West Palm Beach.
